NEW YORK, May 10, 2017 ? The Insurance Information Institute (I.I.I.) today announced that it will host its inaugural ?I.I.I. Market Report? webinar, Managing Geopolitical Risk, on Tuesday, May 16. Leading experts from the insurance industry, as well as global politics, will discuss the current geopolitical climate, subsequent risks for businesses and government and risk mitigation.

The webinar details are as follows:

Date: Tuesday, May 16, 2017

Time: 11 a.m., EST

Opening Remarks:

Sean Kevelighan, CEO, Insurance Information Institute

Hank Watkins, President, North America - Lloyd's

Panelists:

Natalie de Clermont, Underwriter of Political Risk and Trade Credit, Neon Underwriting Limited

Harriet Karwatowska, Broker, Miller Insurance LLP

Amy Pope, Former Deputy Homeland Security Advisor, National Security Council; Senior Fellow, Atlantic Council

Topic: For insurers and the insured, the effects of geopolitical risk can be taxing and have significant impact on an organization by way of business disruption, financial loss or even human peril. The expert panelists will discuss how insurance can be used as an effective tool to mitigate these risks, and how it helps businesses prepare.

Space is limited so participants should register for the webinar as soon as possible.

Throughout the year, the 'I.I.I. Market Report' webinar series will be conducted in partnership with various organizations with expertise in an array of topics including financial services, international relations and domestic affairs.

Reporters who would like additional information about this webinar should contact Lizzie Lowe, Regional Head of Communications - North America of Lloyd's at 212-382-4082 or lizzie.lowe@lloyds.com.
